

About 80 percent
of all the latex paint collected through the CSWD
hazardous waste program is recycled!

When you use recycled paint:

- You reduce demand for production of new paint made from virgin materials.
- You reduce the amount of new paint that must be transported from afar.
- You keep perfectly good paint from having to be solidified and landfilled!

Premium Reblended Latex Paint

LOCAL COLOR

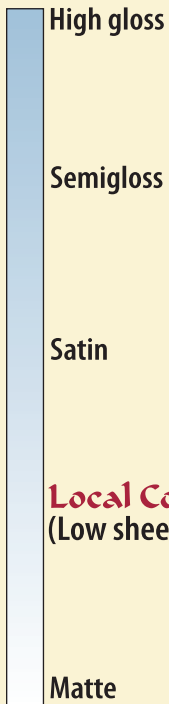

PREMIUM REBLENDED PAINT

When Chittenden County businesses and residents bring latex paint to the Environmental Depot for recycling, it goes through an exacting process to ensure premium-quality coverage before being recycled as Local Color paint:

- Paint is screened for quality and recyclability. If it fails our inspection, it doesn't make it into the bucket.
- It is then double-filtered to ensure silky-smooth consistency.
- Colors are batched and blended to fall within each color's spectrum.

Finish

Local Color has a low sheen finish.

THESE COLORS ARE APPROXIMATIONS

The colors above are not exact color matches. The variety of colors that come into the Depot daily for recycling allow us to blend a spectrum of Barn Reds or Autumn Yellows instead of just one shade—and it can vary from lot to lot.

Come to one of the outlets (see the back panel for locations) and choose your color based on the swatch on the bucket. A swatch book with the full range of each color is available for viewing at the CSWD Environmental Depot.

For example, Mountain Green could come in anything from dark, piney hue to a minty sea foam.

Autumn Yellow could range from bright sunflower to soft morning sunlight.
